Community spirit shines on family

CARING villagers are rallying round to help improve the life of a boy with severe disabilities.

Seven-year-old Alfie Long suffers from cryptogenic infantile spasms, which results in constant seizures, and his development has been delayed, leaving him with severe disabilities.

He was diagnosed with the condition at just eight months and is totally dependant on his devoted parents, Sarah and Tim, to feed, change, wash and dress him. He is confined to a wheelchair as he is unable to walk, but likes to roll on the floor.

Money is now needed to help the family adapt their home, in Westward Deals, Kedington, as Alfie gets older.

An estimate two years ago to build a ground floor bedroom and bathroom for him was around £50,000, but Sarah and Tim can only claim a disability grant of between £25,000 to £30,000 and fear they will not be able to make up the shortfall.

Sarah and Tim also have a daughter, 18-month-old Evie, who suffered breathing and heart problems soon after birth and was later diagnosed with the rare costello syndrome, which affects her development.

Sarah said the family had all but given up hope of making the alterations to their home they needed to help Alfie, when Brian and Dion Walford, landlords at the Barnardiston Arms pub in Kedington, asked if they could make Alfie's fund their charity of the year.

Generous pub-goers have already raised around £1,000 and a charity football tournament on Saturday should boost it further, with more events planned in the future.

Sarah, who is manager of the Kedington Early Birds playgroup, said: "We realised that as Alfie got bigger we could not carry him up and down the stairs, so we got some quotes, but we did not realise we would have to pay so much money towards it.

"Then I was pregnant and we had just shelved the idea for the time being because we could not see any way forward.

"I suppose it was pride really, but we did not want to ask anyone for help. You think when you have children it is up to you to provide for them.

Boys' bike stolen

A BOYS' brown and cream BMX bike was stolen from a back garden at Haverhill overnight. The theft happened at Mallow Walk between 11.30pm on Monday and 10.30am on Tuesday. Calls in relation to this incident should be made to Pc Colin Cox at Haverhill police on (01284) 774100 or Crimestoppers on 0800 555111.

Yobs dent bonnet

ONE of a group of around 10 youths ran over the bonnet of a black Nissan Almera, denting it, in Chapelwent Road, Haverhill at around 9.40pm on Friday, May 22.

Anyone with any information about this incident is asked to call Pc Ben Vann at Haverhill police on (01284) 774100 or Crimestoppers on 0800 555111.

Front door smashed

GLASS in a front door was smashed at Shadowbush Close, Haverhill at around 11pm on Friday, May 22.

Calls in relation to this incident should be made to Pc Victoria Anthistle at Haverhill police on (01284) 774100 or Crimestoppers on 0800 555111.

Prison's proposals

PLANS to build an extension to a segregation block at Highpoint Prison, Stradishall, in a revised location to that previously approved, have been submitted to St Edmundsbury Borough Council.

New men's pampering centre offers room to groom

MEN can treat themselves now that a barber shop in Haverhill is offering male grooming at its new shop.
Joanne Rosenwold has opened Just Cutz in Queen

Street and as well as a haircut, men can avail of waxing and massage treatments, sunbeds and even tattooing.

Joanne said: "We were at our last address in Mill Road for seven years. That was getting a bit too small so we decided to move and open a male grooming centre.

"I've been trading for 14 years so I am growing the business. We should be very busy and we've had lots of positive feedback from existing customers."

With the expansion, Joanne now has nine staff. Cllr Les Ager, the outgoing mayor, performed the official opening on Tuesday, May 26.

Village store scoops award

A VILLAGE shop staffed by volunteers has been named the best local trader in East Anglia.

Hundon Village Shop was given the plaudit by consumer recommendation website Which?.

The not-for-profit convenience store and post office came top of the poll which included 29,000 recommendations made by Which? members.

The award is designed to recognise traders who go that extra mile.

Hundon Village Shop now joins nine other regional winners on a shortlist for Which? Local Business of the Year, which will be awarded on Tuesday.

Pete Tynan, from Which? Local, said: "A recommendation from a satisfied customer is one of the best ways to find a reliable local trader, so the businesses that have been selected as best in their region should really benefit from this recognition."

"Hundon Village Shop wins this award for taking the phrase 'local business' to another level, using an innovative approach to provide the village with easy access to a wide range of goods and delivering exemplary customer service."

Clothing chain's charity

A CLOTHES store in Haverhill has helped its chain raise more than £300,000 across the UK for Macmillan Cancer Support.

The Bonmarché store contributed £252 towards the Suffolk total of £3,254 for grants to people affected by cancer in financial difficulty.

Staff raised cash by getting dressed up for Macmillan's "Go Mad, Go Green" day, holding raffles, joining the World's Biggest Coffee Morning and through sales of a collectable silver anniversary bracelet designed by David Emanuel.

Town meeting a 'shambles'

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorials@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

A PENSIONER'S rights campaigner has slammed his local town council for holding a shambolic public meeting and for sitting on the fence over proposed local government reform.

Frank Bradsell, 88, has been leading the Haverhill and District Pensioners' Association for the past 20 years, but said he considered giving up after attending last week's annual town meeting hosted by Haverhill Town Council.

Mr Bradsell had sent in three written questions before the meeting relating to the future administration of Suffolk and the wellbeing of the elderly. He does not believe he received a satisfactory answer to any of them.

Criticising the "overcrowded" conditions under which the meeting was held, he said: "The annual town meeting and full council meeting that follows is a major event, but the occasion last week was a complete shambles."

"There was a large number whose sole reason for attending was to applaud the installation of the new mayor. Although this is usual each year, it was a gross error to arrange this event in such a confined space. It was vastly overcrowded with many standing in uncomfortable heat."

Mr Bradsell slammed the council's "undemocratic attitude" to his concerns regarding pensioners' rights and expressed fears that old people were being treated as "stupid troublemakers".

He added: "After last week I was ready to give up, it was a complete waste of time. We are all living longer and a lot of people seem to feel that we are an expensive embarrassment. They get private people in to do things and the standard goes down, while the charges go up."

"The town council says it has not received any complaints, but people don't write to the town council when they cannot afford Meals on Wheels any more, they just stop having them. I am lucky, I can afford to keep myself pretty well, but what about those who cannot?"

Blasting the town council's lack of response to his queries regarding the administrative re-organisation of Suffolk, he said: "Surely, in order to form an opinion, we are entitled to ask our elected representatives how, in their view, Haverhill would be best served.

"I have great respect for the town clerk but it is time some councillors became less reliant on him and do what they were elected to do - work for us with more public participation."

Town clerk Gordon Mussett said

"After last week I was ready to give up, it was a complete waste of time."

Frank Bradsell, pensioners' rights campaigner larger rooms had been provided in the past when large numbers of people were expected to attend, but often this did not prove to be the case.

He said the town council had clearly stated its view that it welcomed either of the two Suffolk options under consideration as they would mean greater town council involvement in local management and delivery of services.

He confirmed that his role as clerk was to inform the public of town council policy, which was set by councillors' decisions.

Villagers raise cash for Alfie

"There are a lot of families in the same position and it does seem wrong that you have to find this kind of money for something which is not a luxury, just for his basic care."

"The pub is our local and when they contacted us we were really pleased. They are always doing things for charity and it was lovely that they wanted to help Alfie."

"Everyone in the village wants to help. We have lived here six years and I would not live anywhere else, it has such a community feel to it."

To make a donation, or find out more about future fundraising, events you can get more information from the Barnardiston Arms pub in Arms Lane, Kedington.

■ The five-a-side football tournament will take place at the Great Meadow outside Kedington Community Centre from 10am on Saturday.

There will also be a barbecue and bar, as well as target golf, football challenges, a derby sweepstake, as well as bottle and cake stalls.

New health centre opens doors to walk-in patients

A NEW walk-in health clinic has opened its doors for the first time.

Richard Spring, MP for West Suffolk, and Carole Taylor-Brown, chief executive of NHS Suffolk, officially opened the new Crown Health Centre in Haverhill on Wednesday.

The centre, on Withersfield Road, will be housed in temporary accommodation for the next three years until a permanent centre can be built and will be open seven days a week from 8am to 8pm.

It will be run by The Practice plc, and will welcome registered and non-registered patients, and also offer new health services for the town, such as treating minor injuries – reducing the need for people to go to A&E unnecessarily, and specialised clinics to help people stop smoking.

Services will also include advice on sexual health, alcohol and substance misuse and weight management.

Also present on the opening day was Peter Watts, chief executive officer of The Practice plc and clinical and administrative staff who will be working at the new centre, along with representatives from St Edmundsbury Borough Council, which has provided the site.

Ms Taylor-Brown said: "This is good news for the people of Haverhill and the surrounding areas."

"This is a modern healthcare facility that we fully expect to benefit local communities in new ways – by offering longer opening hours and providing an alternative to A&E for minor injuries, along with wellbeing clinics."

"We would like to extend our thanks to nearby residents and the Haverhill community for their patience in getting us to this opening day."

Summer fun at St Mary's

A CHURCH will be offering fun for all the family at its summer fete on Saturday.

St Mary's Church, in Haverhill, will have many attractions including plants and handicrafts, games, handmade gifts, bric-a-brac, food and drink, a name the teddy competition and a raffle, from 10am to 2pm.

Reward for cat's return

OWNERS of a missing kitten are offering a reward for her safe return home.

Molly (pictured below), who is 12-months-old, was last seen last Wednesday at her home at Sperling Drive, Haverhill.

Shoplifting addict gets jail sentence

A HEROIN addict who committed a string of shoplifting offences to fund her habit has been jailed by magistrates.

Mother-of-one Jamie Lines, 21, admitted six offences of shoplifting and one of failing to surrender to police bail when she appeared at Bury St Edmunds magistrates court on Tuesday.

She was sentenced to 12 weeks in prison for the crimes. Magistrates also revoked an earlier community order, which she had breached, and imposed a 12-week sentence to be served concurrently for a similar offence, for which sentencing had been deferred until July.

Chairman of the bench,

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

Muriel Lawrence, told her: "We consider that you wilfully and persistently refused to comply with court orders and blatantly disregarded them, so that only a custodial sentence can be justified."

"You have demonstrated that you are a prolific offender and a total nuisance to retailers."

Lines, of Larks Close, Haverhill, admitted five charges of shoplifting from the Co-op in Haverhill and one from Boots, involving property worth £122.

Emma Lister, prosecuting, said Lines had been caught on CCTV on five occasions walking into the Co-op store in Jubilee Walk and stealing meat.

A community order was imposed on her by magistrates in January for shoplifting, but on April 24 she appeared in court for breaching this order and it was revoked to be replaced with another, including a substance misuse treatment programme.

Ann Barber, of the probation service, said Lines had appeared in court for a breach on the day after the order was imposed. Because this, and a total lack of contact with the service for three months, no community penalty was likely to be successful and a prison sentence may help tackle her addiction.

Jeremy Kendall, prosecuting, said: "Within a year she has gone from someone who has not made a court appearance to someone who is on the cusp of a prison sentence."

"The problem is clearly drugs. There is nothing sophisticated about these offences, just desperation when she steals to get drugs."

Mr Kendall said his client had reduced her drug dependency, but committed these offences after her methadone prescription lapsed. Matters were made worse by her chaotic lifestyle and lack of a permanent address. Her two-year-old daughter was being cared for by her parents.

Mr Kendall argued if Line was sent to prison she would receive no support on her release and she would have a better chance of getting off drugs if her community order was continued.

WIN A £125 SHOPPING SPREE AT NEW-LOOK ALDI

A recent price comparison found that, on average, you can save £23 on a weekly shop in Aldi, compared to equivalent quality food at other major supermarkets. So it's no surprise that more and more shoppers are turning to Aldi to beat the credit crunch.

Take the infamous Aldi 'Super 6' produce promotions for example, where each month 6 types of fruit or veg are sold at rock bottom prices. June is no exception and includes plums (500g), cherries (250g), peaches (5 pack) and pineapples all for 49p.

To cope with the extra customers, the Aldi store on Lordscroft Lane, Haverhill, has been undergoing a major extension and refurbishment. The store has remained open during the extension but the new look, bigger store will launch on Thursday, June 25.

When it opens, there will be more space devoted to all the areas that Aldi specialises in, such as wine, cheese, continental meats and flowers. Weekly 'Special Buys' will include everything from gardening and DIY equipment to electricals and textiles, but be quick if you want to snap up the bargains because they don't stay on sale long. For more information on upcoming Aldi Specials visit www.aldi.co.uk or pick up a leaflet in store.

To help celebrate the new-look store, and thank locals for remaining loyal throughout the building works, Aldi is offering two Haverhill Weekly News readers the chance to win a £125 shopping spree each. For your chance to win, just answer this question: How much do the Aldi Super 6 produce promotions cost in June?

Send your entries to ALDI Competition, PO Box 268, Cambridge, CB24 6HF or email your answer to competitions@cambridge-news.co.uk (please ensure the subject is named ALDI) to arrive no later than Friday, June 12. Please include your name, address and daytime telephone number.

The first two correct entries drawn will win the prizes.

■ Usual Weekly News rules apply.

MP uses privilege power to attack bank's 'fraud'

Eviction threat: Paul and Nikki Turner outside their home.

AN MP has used his Parliamentary privilege to attack alleged corruption at a major bank that has caused misery for a Linton couple.

South East Cambs MP Jim Paice took the unusual step of calling a House of Commons debate to detail allegations of malpractice at HBOS, which has been trying to evict Paul and Nikki Turner from their home for the past two years.

The couple, who run a music promotion business called Zenith Café, say they were the victims of corruption at HBOS, which told them to employ a consultancy firm, Quayside, after they took out a loan with the bank.

It is alleged Quayside later began taking thousands of pounds out of their account each month until there was nothing left.

BY JACK GROVE

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

The Turners have since won several court hearings to fight off their creditors, while their case has been championed by Mr Paice, the BBC's File on Four and the Prime Minister, following allegations of fraud at HBOS.

It is thought up to 50 businesses have been hit by the alleged fraud, in 2006.

Mr Paice this week used his privilege powers – which allowed him to make comments against the bank which would be potentially libellous outside the House – to raise the Turners' plight again.

He said: "Our discussions with HBOS had come to an impasse, so I have decided to use the house's legal privilege to air some important aspects of their case. I've never taken this step before but I wanted to make some statements that could only be made using privilege."

Speaking in the chamber, he said: "The public now owns most of HBOS and while there will be many reasons for its decline it seems clear to me that some of its losses, probably hundreds of millions, stem from malpractice at the Reading office.

"All of us are taxpayers and we are justified in demanding to know how this happened, why it was allowed to happen, and whether any criminality was involved."

HBOS has not commented on the case since 2007, and has now been taken under state control.

Just over a week ago, a judge suspended an eviction warrant against the Turners pending the debate in the Commons.

Couple plays cards right at bridge benefit

A BRIDGE tournament has raised more than £250,000 in just 15 years for Marie Curie Cancer Care.

The tournament was started in 1995 by Philippa Cannon, the charity's North Essex patron, who wanted to repay the kindness shown to both of her parents when they were cared for by Marie Curie nurses.

The event started as a small tournament among friends in Essex and has grown into a national fundraising campaign which has raised more than £250,000 to date.

This year's winners Simon and Gay Redman, of Weston Colville Hall, were presented with a pair of beautiful claret jugs.

Simon said: "We were delighted to win the tournament this year."

"I have been playing bridge for over 50 years.

My father and I used to have great fun playing and Gay and I have been playing since we were engaged.

"We've been playing in the Marie Curie Tournament since 1995 but this is the first time we've won and we're delighted."

The next tournament is scheduled to take place between October 2009 and March 2010 with organisers welcoming entrants from all over the UK.

Registration is open until June 15 and costs £3.

The charity is hoping entrants will donate an additional £17 to enable Marie Curie Cancer Care to fund an hour of nursing care in a patient's home.

Police prevent woodland rave

POLICE managed to stop an illegal rave party being held at woods near Haverhill on Friday night.

Suffolk Police were called at around 11.10pm to reports of an illegal gathering in the woods near Little Thurlow.

Vehicles were blocked from accessing the site and officers were on the scene at around 1.40am on Saturday.

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

Around 50 people were in the woods but all were dispersed by 2.30am.

A 32-year-old Haverhill man was arrested on suspicion of possessing an offensive weapon and possession of cocaine and has been released on bail to return to Bury St Edmunds police station on June 10.

A 19-year-old man from the town was also arrested on suspicion of committing a public order offence and assault, and has been released on police bail to return to Bury St Edmunds Police Station on June 24.

Cannabis was also seized by officers and two warnings issued.

Any suspicious activity which may be connected to an illegal rave should be reported to police immediately, dialling 999 if necessary or (01473) 613500.

Vandalism is rampant on estate

Sir, I refer to an article in the Weekly News regarding the recent vandalism incident on the Clements (Cameras plea as attacks continue – May 28).

It claims it is the second time for such an incident, but in fact this has happened many times. My own and my daughter's cars have been attacked several times in Eastern Avenue, Haverhill. On separate occasions I have had both sides scratched front to back, deep scratches to the bonnet and boot, both electric mirrors kicked off, and my roof walked over. Only two weeks ago some cretin with mud on their shoes climbed up the boot, over the roof and slid down the windscreen and bonnet, with scuffs where they had walked and a scored screen being the result.

I am far from the only one affected in this location. Reports to the police evoke no results whatever other than sympathetic noises and no support for cameras at the bottom of Eastern Avenue. These really are needed.

This is a widespread and very expensive problem in Haverhill.

Benefits cheat hid husband

A WOMAN who took more than £16,000 worth of benefits she was not entitled to has received a suspended prison sentence.

Deborah Griffin, 40, failed to inform the authorities that her husband was living with her.

She appeared at Bury St Edmunds Magistrates Court, where she was given a three-month custodial sentence, suspended for 12 months, and a supervision order for 12 months.

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

Costs were awarded in the sum of £220.

She admitted a charge that between October 2005 and January 2009 at Haverhill, knowing that a change in her circumstances, namely that Darryl Tyler was living with her as her partner, would affect her entitlement to payment under any provision of relevant social security legislation, she dishonestly failed to give prompt notification of that change to the Department for Work and Pensions.

Griffin, of Queensway, Haverhill, also admitted a further charge of failing to notify the change to the benefits service of St Edmundsbury Borough Council.

Griffin claimed income support, housing and council tax benefits and failed to notify Job Centre Plus and the council that her partner had moved in with her and that they were married.

Income support, housing and council tax benefits are means tested and claimants are required to notify any changes in their circumstances that affect their entitlement.

The offences were discovered as a result of a tip off from a member of the public.

There were overpayments of £7,490.85 in housing benefit, £1,774.33 in council tax benefit and £6,804.86 in income support as a result of the offences.

Rogue traders hassled by op

FIVE people were arrested and more than 200 offences were recorded when police launched a day of action to tackle rogue traders who prey on the vulnerable.

Suffolk police's Operation Hassle was held across the county last month in support of the National Rogue Trader Week crackdown.

Officers joined forces with Trading Standards, HM Revenue and Customs, the Department for Work and Pensions (DWP), the Vehicle and Operator Services Agency (VOSA) and other agencies to target those who target the vulnerable and elderly.

A 40-year-old man from Cambridgeshire was arrested in Lowestoft on suspicion of fraud by failure to disclose information. He was released on bail to return to Lowestoft police station on June 24.

During the day of action 198 police offences, 23 trading standards offences and 25 DWP offences were identified.

Police said that many traders feared their legitimate business was being undermined by rogue traders. More than 50 victims of previous rogue traders or distraction burglaries were also visited during Operation Hassle.

Inspector Ben Cook said: "Operation Hassle aimed to show our commitment to cracking down on those who prey on the vulnerable and elderly through doorstep crime.

"We want everyone to know we will continue to work with our partners to tackle anyone who believes cold calling or deceiving people is an easy way to make profit.

"By offering crime prevention advice to local communities, hopefully we have raised awareness of these sorts of crimes and prevented more people falling victim to them.

"I would like once again to urge people to call police immediately if they feel they are being targeted by a rogue trader or distraction burglary."

Fourth swine flu case also 'sporadic'

THE latest victim of swine flu in Cambridgeshire has recovered.

The new case brought the total number in the county to four and the overall UK total to 184.

Officials at the Health Protection Agency said the case had been confirmed on Saturday, but the patient had recovered. They refused to give the case's location or details about the patient.

Dr Liz Robin, director of public health for Cambridgeshire, said that the Health Protection Agency had once again found no links to any other confirmed cases or to people recently returned from Mexico and added: "This means that all four cases of swine flu in Cambridgeshire are confirmed as 'sporadic'."

Security scheme gets a free rein

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

A COUNTYWIDE Horse Watch scheme has been launched by police at this year's Suffolk Show to help combat equine crime.

Suffolk Horse Watch has been running in Mid-Suffolk since September 2008 but went live across the county after its official launch last week.

It aims to get horse owners and riders to share information about stolen property and suspicious vehicles, via texts, email and a pre-recorded advice line.

During the event Suffolk Police also encouraged riders to join the Police Direct messaging facility where they will receive up-to-date news of both community and equestrian crimes, as well as other information. Membership to both services is free.

Julie Dennis, of the Community Safety Unit said: "The aim is to reduce the risk of equestrian related crime by members being aware of the security measures they can take to protect themselves.

"Theft is not only devast-

Official launch: Inspector Mark Lewis, project manager for the Safer Neighbourhood Team's development team, and Julie Dennis, community safety assistant and Horse Watch administrator.

ating financially but can cause immense inconvenience, for example, to lose the saddle that fits your horse like a glove or the trailer you need to transport your horse to shows."

She added: "As a horse owner I can appreciate the distress that must be experienced if your horse is stolen from its field and I would urge equestrians to look closely at their security and postcode all of their equipment which, in the first instance, will make their property undesirable to steal, and secondly make it easier to be identified should it be stolen and subsequently recovered.

"Just like Neighbourhood Watch, much can be achieved through general awareness and a little effort from each individual."

Residents do not have to own a horse to become involved as all are welcome from occasional riders to the owners of livery yards.

Anyone interested in joining up should visit the Suffolk Police website, www.suffolk.police.uk/crime+reduction/watch+schemes/horse+watch/

New order could help those on low incomes leave debts behind

HAVERHILL Citizens Advice Bureau this month offers advice on a new solution which could help those on low incomes and non-homeowners to escape debts and keep their creditors at bay

Q: I have debts that I can't see any way of being able to repay since an accident which has left me unable to work. I have looked into bankruptcy but I can't afford the fee. Is there anything else I can do?

A: There's new help for people in debt that offers an alternative to bankruptcy. If you owe others less than £15,000 and you're on a low income, you may be able to apply for a new debt remedy called a Debt Relief Order (DRO for short) that has just become available.

You don't say whether you rent your home or have a mortgage, but you won't be able to apply for a DRO if you're a homeowner or you own things of value of over £300.

A DRO usually lasts for one year and during that time none of the people you owe money to will be able to take action against you to get their money back.

At the end of the year, you'll be free of all the debts listed in the order.

To apply for a DRO, you'll need to contact an authorised adviser, for example a Citizens Advice Bureau adviser, who checks whether you meet the conditions and then applies for the order on your behalf. The order will cost you £90 but you can pay this in instalments over six months. For more information and advice about other possible ways of dealing with your financial obligations, and for contact details of your nearest Citizens Advice Bureau, visit the Citizens Advice website adviceguide.org.uk

Haverhill CAB can be found at the Centre for Voluntary Agencies, in Lower Downs Slade, Haverhill, CB9 9HB.

The bureau is open for anybody to drop in without an appointment between 11am and 4pm on Mondays, Tuesdays and Thursdays and between 11am and 2pm on Fridays.

For telephone advice phone (01440) 704012 on

Mondays, Tuesdays, Thursdays and Fridays between 9.30am and 11am and on Wednesday from noon to 4pm. Appointment for general advice can be made by arrangement on (01440) 762194 www.adviceguide.org.uk also provides information.

Summer road safety crackdown

A CRACKDOWN on summer drink and drug driving was launched in Cambridgeshire this week.

The next two months will see stop-checks across the county to breath-test drivers and check whether they are under the influence of drugs.

Pc Tony Barrios, casualty reduction officer, said: "As the weather warms up there is bound to be an increase in the number of people going out and drinking. Anyone doing so and planning on driving has a responsibility to themselves and other road users to ensure they do not drive over the limit.

"Our message is clear – if you drive under the influence, expect to be caught and brought to justice."

There has been a reduction in drink-driving in recent months, with 99 people arrested in the Christmas campaign in 2008, compared to 149 arrests the previous year.

More motorists than ever before, around 10,000, were stopped during the campaign.

Pc Barrios added: "Drink and drug drivers are not only putting their own lives at risk but also the lives of others."

Glittering success: St Nicholas Hospice corporate fundraiser Abby Hunt, far right, with employees at Genzyme in Haverhill in their Wear It Silver competition outfits. The company has raised £15,000 since November 2007 for the hospice. CP

Silver stylings help hospice strike gold

STAFF at Genzyme in Haverhill helped a hospice strike silver in its quest for much-needed funds.

Genzyme held a "wear it silver" day at the site to raise funds for its chosen charity, St Nicholas Hospice Care.

Employees were encouraged to wear silver to work and take part in various fundraising activities to mark the 25th anniversary of the hospice this year.

The company has organised a series of fundraising activities and events throughout the year including sponsored bike rides, running and a football tournament.

Many staff have also volunteered to spend a weekend at the hospice to undertake maintenance work.

Abby Hunt, the charity's corporate fundraiser, said: "Since November 2007 Genzyme's employees have raised an incredible £15,000 for St Nicholas Hospice Care through various fundraising activities.

"This is a tremendous amount which has been making a real difference to the community.

"When employees visited the hospice last year to volunteer, it was clear everyone wanted to be there. Their teamwork and enthusiasm is why they are so successful.

"We thank everyone at Genzyme for their consistent efforts. I am especially pleased they will be undertaking another weekend of volunteering."

Gas cylinders warning

MEMBERS of the public are being warned by ambulance chiefs to contact the police if they come across "potentially dangerous" blue and white cylinders of gas.

The East of England Ambulance Service issued the warning following the theft of about 50 cylinders of Entonox gas from ambulance stations in Suffolk.

Ambulance stations at Haverhill, Stowmarket and Bury St Edmunds have found the dangerous cylinders stolen from their stores after break-ins during the past week.

An East of England Ambulance Service spokesman said: "We can't stress enough how potentially dangerous these cylinders can be.

"They contain gas under high pressure which could explode if handled incorrectly and would certainly cause serious injuries to the person handling them.

"Anyone finding cylinders fitting the description should contact the police immediately."

Gold rush for silver jubilee

BY JOHN DOWNING

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

JEWELLERS are offering a golden opportunity to convert scraps of the precious metal into vital hospice cash.

Graham Shipp, of Griffith Jones jewellers in the High Street, Haverhill, is aiming to raise £20,000 for St Nicholas Hospice Care in its 25th anniversary year by collecting unwanted pieces of scrap gold.

He has already raised more than £7,500 towards his target through weighing in small items of gold jewellery brought into the shop.

Now he is calling on the community to look through their jewellery boxes and bring any odd earrings, unwanted chains or broken clasps into the shop.

They will be valued and all proceeds will go to the hospice's care for people with terminal illnesses.

Added together even the tiniest trinkets and broken keepsakes can make a difference for the Bury St Edmunds hospice which offers care to people in the Haverhill and Newmarket areas.

Turning gold into copper: the Haverhill jewellers Griffith Jones has launched a collection drive of unwanted jewellery to help St Nicholas Hospice.

Abby Hunt, corporate fundraiser for the hospice, said: "We are absolutely delighted that Griffith Jones jewellers have chosen to support us in this way."

"The recession is really biting for individuals and businesses alike, so we are truly grateful to Graham Shipp for coming up with this brilliant idea which is raising an incredible amount of money for St Nicholas Hospice Care from scrap gold that would otherwise be thrown away."

The charity looks after people with terminal and life-limiting illnesses including cancer, multiple sclerosis, motor neurone disease and the advanced stages of heart and lung disease.

More than 50,000 people have been supported by the hospice in its 25 years – but it has to raise £10,000 every day through the generosity of the local community to keep providing care.

There are a number of events to mark the anniversary year – see www.stnicholashospice.org.uk for details.

Fraud fears over swine flu tablets

HEALTH bosses have issued a swine flu fraud alert to stop doctors selling anti-viral drugs on the black market.

The outbreak has prompted Cambridgeshire and Hertfordshire's primary care trusts (PCTs) to be on the alert for fraud surrounding the respiratory disease.

Fraud officers at the health authorities fear that doctors may sell the anti-viral drug Tamiflu on the black market or obtain it for family and friends.

They are also worried that unscrupulous traders will sell fake batches of the drug to desperate members of the public.

The Weekly News found a website offering to sell a batch of 100 75mg Tamiflu tablets for £750. Another was offering the same 100 pills for £359.

BY RAYMOND BROWN

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

The recommended dose is 75mg daily for five days and the prevention dosage is 75mg capsule every alternate day.

In a document leaked to the Weekly News, East and North Hertfordshire PCT and West Hertfordshire PCT said: "Hertfordshire PCTs are aware that there is a heightened risk of fraud due to the recent outbreak of swine flu."

It went on to outline the various risks.

GPs were told to keep an eye out for patients registering at several surgeries in a bid to obtain numerous doses of the drug Tamiflu.

And they warn that doctors and other health staff could abuse their position and obtain the drugs "unfairly" to distribute to friends and family.

It also claims doctors and health professionals could get the drugs and sell them illegally on the black market.

And there are fears con artists could send emails to patients with links to websites that claim to be able to sell anti-viral drugs, but are in fact a cover for stealing credit card or bank details. Meanwhile, counterfeit anti-virals could be offered for sale through websites.

Francesca Pillow, local anti-fraud specialist for East and North Hertfordshire PCT, which covers Royston, said: "We have had no cases of fraud concerning anti-virals reported to us so far but we thought that prevention is better than cure and so released a pre-emptive alert to GPs."

Detective Chief Inspector Jon Hutchinson of Cambridgeshire police said: "We are not aware of any reports of this type of fraud so far but we are monitoring the situation."

A spokeswoman for NHS Cambridgeshire said: "Fraud is taken very seriously by NHS Cambridgeshire."

"The supply of Tamiflu is strictly dispensed and monitored in accordance with protocol and we currently undertake secure stock control procedures."

The fraud warning comes as a fifth case of the illness was confirmed in Cambridgeshire.

The patient was recovering well, according to an NHS spokesman

Live TV coverage of hospital ops is praised by surgeons

A TV show that broadcast operations live from Addenbrooke's and Papworth hospitals will help educate the public, surgeons believe.

Channel 4's The Operation: Surgery Live has shown surgeons from four hospitals conducting operations while answering questions from a studio audience, as well as from viewers using websites such as Twitter.

Last week, viewers watched Francis Wells lead a Papworth team conducting open-heart surgery and Richard Hardwick leading a key-hole stomach operation at Addenbrooke's.

The latter procedure introduced viewers to surgical secrets such as "Goldfingers" and the "shoe-shine shuffle" – all relayed in pin-sharp images from inside the abdomen of patient Susan Hyde, from Whittlesford.

Mr Hardwick, consultant gastro-intestinal surgeon at the Cambridge hospital, told the Weekly News: "We were very pleased with the way it went. All the (TV) technology didn't interfere with what was going on with the operation. And Susan is feeling fine."

Pleased: Richard Hardwick praised the programme for taking a non-sensational approach.

Presenter Krishnan Guru-Murthy was at a studio in the Wellcome Collection in London, from where he put the public's questions to Mr Hardwick and his fellow Addenbrooke's surgeon Simon Derryhouse, who was also in the studio.

The operation tackled a hiatus hernia in Ms Hyde's diaphragm, where part of her stomach had risen from her abdomen into her chest cavity.

Mr Hardwick praised the programme for taking an "education-based" non-sensational approach.

He added: "Principally, we were hoping to educate the public, both about aspects of that particular condition, and also about what is involved in getting people through complex operations."

Papworth's Mr Wells said: "Most people have no idea what goes on inside their bodies and I believe that the more they understand and appreciate how their bodies work, the more they may look after their own health."

'Morning after pill' screening bid

YOUNG women who request emergency contraception from a pharmacy are to be automatically offered a chlamydia screening kit.

It is part of a new service from NHS Suffolk to reduce the number of people with the infection.

Anyone under the age of 25 who asks for free emergency contraception will be given a screening kit to check whether they have the sexually transmitted infection.

Dr Amanda Jones, deputy director of public health at NHS Suffolk, which funds the Suffolk chlamydia screening programme, said: "We are encouraging sexually active young people under the age of 25 to find out if they have chlamydia and to take a test every year."

"By making the test available through pharmacies, we hope more young people will check themselves for chlamydia, a sexually transmitted infection which often gives no signs or symptoms and can lead to long term problems such as infertility."

Estimates show that one in 10 sexually active young people may have chlamydia – but most people will not know they have the infection as there may be no signs or symptoms.

To find out which pharmacies are taking part in the scheme visit www.suffolk.nhs.uk or www.amiclear.com

'Shoppers' wanted to investigate police

POLICE have launched a plea for "mystery shoppers" to go undercover.

The Cambridgeshire force is looking for volunteers to visit police stations and judge how well they respond to the public.

The force said it is committed to ensuring the best possible service and hopes to identify areas of improvement.

A spokeswoman said: "As mystery shoppers you will be given a number of scenarios to test the police and you will also be asked to look at the station front offices and report back on the quality of service you received and areas such as the general environment, ease of access and waiting times."

The mystery shopping exercises will take place during the week of June 15.

Anyone interested in taking part can contact Niki Humphrey on 0845 4564564.

Alternatively, if you have visited your local police station during May and would like to share your experiences, the police would like to hear from you.

This page will give your children hours of fun. It could also save their lives.

Colour Me Safe is a simple, happy activity which tells youngsters how to stay out of harms way.

All we ask is that you sit down with your child and talk about the different messages on this page. Ask them to colour in the pictures. Explain what they mean. Then encourage them to put the page on their bedroom wall, kitchen notice board or anywhere else they may regularly be able to read the 'Colour Me Safe' message.

Colour Me Safe is a new, yet stunningly simple and effective way to get a familiar warning through to the youngsters. Please do all you can to help.

Impersonator gives insight into world of funny voices

BEST known for impersonating countless celebrities and public figures in Dead Ringers on Radio 4 and BBC2, Jan Ravens is coming to the Arts Centre as part of the Haverhill Festival.

Her first solo show A Funny Look at Impressions on Friday, June 19, at 8pm is delightfully funny and premiered at London's National Theatre.

Ravens reveals how she creates her remarkable impressions, with an insightful look at the world of funny voices and silly wigs.

Many of her best-loved characters will make an appearance, from Anne Robinson and Nigella Lawson to Ann Widdecombe and the Queen, plus of course her unforgettable takes on Fiona Bruce and Kirsty Wark – no woman in the public eye can hide from Ravens's unique brand of satirical comedy.

In addition to her work in Dead Ringers, Ravens has recently stepped out on Strictly Come Dancing, and won Celebrity Mastermind (specialist subject Daphne du Maurier).

In the 80s she provided voices for Spitting Image (along with Chris Barrie, Harry Enfield, Alistair McGowan and Steve Coogan), as well for several years, the sultry tones of the Cadbury's Caramel bunny.

Jan studied drama at Homerton College in Cambridge and did teacher training at Castle Manor Upper School in Haverhill.

During her time at Cambridge she became the first female president of Cambridge University Footlights Club in 1979. Other members included Stephen Fry, Hugh Laurie and Emma Thompson.

Speaking about the process of creating an impression Ravens said: "I tend first of all just to listen to the vowel and consonant sounds, the tune, the rhythm, the pitch and the accent. And then it's useful to see how much flesh there is around the face or whether they've got a thin nose that they can't send much sound down or whether the lips are tense. Every voice box is pretty much the same but everybody's got a different resonating chamber.

"I'm not under any illusions that doing an impression is going to bring down a government. But certain portrayals have had an impact on the public's awareness – David Steel, John Major, Ming Campbell. It's great that impressions can pop pomposity."

Tickets are £12.50 and available by calling the box office.

your stars with Russell Grant

Arctus May 21 - August

Your cash levels look likely to rise sharply. You could get a hefty sum for a valuable antique you no longer want. Alternatively, you could land a better paid job or get a rise. Be sure to put some of the money toward something very special for your home.

Your allure is at an all time high; use it to your advantage. This is a great time to get favours from all sorts of people. Bank loans, jewellery, swanky dinners the sky's the limit. Beware of accepting an offer with strings attached, though. Learn a foreign language.

Gemini May 22 - June 22

Making a sacrifice on behalf of a loved one comes naturally. Some people will think you are behaving oddy and there may be good reasons for their concern – you've been hurt by relationships in the past. Maybe wait a day or two before making a heartfelt pledge.

Cancer June 23 - July 23

Spending time with friends is a good idea. You've been so wrapped up in work recently you've all but forgotten your social life. Swing the pendulum in the other direction and go out with your mates. A steady job could come to an unexpected halt, leaving you the loser.

You can afford to be a little reckless where your love life is concerned. If you're in a relationship, whisk your lover away to a hidden trysting place. If you're single, it's time to confess a crush. Even if you do get rejected, another door will open for you.

Your creative juices are flowing like a mighty river. There's never been a better time to write a first chapter or apply your paintbrush to a canvas. Give yourself permission to start slowly. Resist the temptation to throw something out once you've started it.

To hear more call 0905 333 4637

Aquarius January 21 - February

You're a lot more sentimental than usual, which comes as a shock to friends. Maybe the reason you're so emotional is that you miss a good friend. Although you can still keep in touch via phone and email, you need some face to face time.

Final judging for dramatic stage turns

THE annual drama festival at Haverhill Arts Centre is as popular as ever, with two evenings and five one act plays left to go. The line up tomorrow is St Neots Players, Sawston Dramawise and Steeple Bumpstead Players and on Saturday, Haverhill's Centre Stage Company and the Irving Stage Company from Bury St Edmunds.

Adjudicator Keith Thompson will carry out the final judging on Saturday evening.

This is a free ticketed event, contact the box office on (01440) 714140 if you fancy a free night out.

■ Having recently returned from their latest US tour, duo-pianists The Cann Twins kick off the 2009 Haverhill Festival on Friday, June 12, at 7.30pm. Claire and Antoinette's programme will include classical favourites from Vienna and Russia such as Tchaikovsky's Swan Lake, Strauss Waltzes and Mozart in a candlelit-style setting and also Spanish dances and Gershwin songs. They will be joined by the Barnardiston Hall Preparatory School choir.

■ Over to cinema, Clint Eastwood stars as veteran, Walt in Gran Torino (15) on Monday at 1.30pm and Wednesday and next Thursday at 7.45pm. Decades after the Korean War, Walt is still haunted by the horrors he witnessed. When his East Asian teenage neighbour attempts to steal his Gran Torino, Walt discovers that the only way to lay his painful memories to rest is to face his own blinding prejudice head-on.

■ French film Modern Life (PG) is the result of 10 years spent filming the French farming communities. This bewitching and charming documentary, records the farmers' lives, values, and all that binds them to the land. It is showing on Monday at 7.45pm with English subtitles.

■ In 1976, a small American winery outclassed exalted French wines to send the wine industry into a tizzy - and put Californian wines on the map for good. Bottle Shock (12A), stars Alan Rickman and Bill Pullman and is showing on Tuesday.

■ For more details about the shows, or to book tickets, phone (01440) 714140 or go to www.haverhillartscentre.co.uk

Helen's dramatic debut in wonderful Dolly

HELEN Scully loved Hello Dolly the first time she saw the film. And now she's landed the lead part in The Over Players' (Tops) summer production of the classic musical – even though she has never been on an amateur dramatics stage before. It all came about because Helen's husband Kevin saw a notice asking for people interested in taking part to go to a read-through, and urged her to have a go. "I've always loved musicals and go round singing and humming tunes from them – I must drive people mad sometimes," says Helen. "I've seen the film a number of times and for me the part of Dolly Levi is a dream part. "I never thought that I would ever get to play the part, so I hope I can pull it off." The show marks the 45th anniversary year of the first production of the Jerry Herman work on Broadway, and is also the Players' 25th anniversary production. ■ Hello Dolly plays at the Over Community Centre until Saturday. Tickets £8 (£6 concs / £5 children). For times and directions, and to book tickets, contact (01954) 230056 or visit www.overplayers.org.uk

Children get ready for summer of fun

BY ALICE RYAN

IT'S set to be an action-packed summer for kids in Cambridge – thanks to the city's Children's Festival. An annual event, which began back in 1995, it offers everything from primary school art workshops to a giant family fun day on Parker's Piece.

"The festival was launched with the aim of providing art opportunities for every single primary schoolchild in the city," explains Frances Alderton, events manager at the city council.

"And we always like to provide as wide a range of activities as possible: this year's programme includes Indian dancing and storytelling, as well as art and crafts."

This year's festival will begin this week, with a special launch party in Cambridge's John Lewis store. John Lewis has supported the festival for the last six years and, as marketing manager Eileen Hughes explains, the 2009 programme is set to be better than ever.

"It's all about supporting local families by offering both extra activities in schools and a chance to have some fun," she says.

The launch will be followed by a whole series of workshops in three city primaries: The Grove, Shirley and St Philip's (which is John Lewis's partner school). Pupils aged 7 to 11 will be given lessons in Indian dance, storytelling and art and, as part of the family fun day on Parker's Piece, they will then be able to showcase all their new skills.

The fun day will take place on July 11, from noon until 5pm, as part of Cambridge's Big Weekend. Attractions will include sports sessions, an adventure playground, craft workshops, a toy-making demo and a troupe of children's entertainers. Dr Who fans will also be on hand, along with a Tardis, a Dalek and some Cybermen.

John Lewis staff will also be hosting their own activity marquee, where special events will include a children's fashion show.

"Because it's part of the Big Weekend there will also be plenty of things for the whole family to enjoy," adds Frances. "There'll be fairground rides, all kinds of stalls, music. We think it's a great way of finishing the school term – and celebrating the start of the summer holidays."

Manicured gardens 'are out of fashion'

Gardeners are likely to return to native plants that give value for money, with an emphasis on low-cost options and a merge of vegetables within the flower border.

So says Andrew Duff, director of garden design courses at Inchbald School of Garden Design (www.inchbald.co.uk) who toured Chelsea with me last week to point out the trends we are likely to be seeing in the coming year.

"Next year is going to be much fluffier, but in a naturalistic way," he says.

"Our native species need shouting about – we'll see more of the viburnum, the oak and other plants which attract wildlife. We may still see manicured touches, but using native species."

Colours will be moody – fewer brilliant colours, more blood reds and blacks, he predicts. Deep purple irises and blood-red aquilegias were the prevalent plants at Chelsea, while alliums, dahlias and tulips were not.

"People are only using things that are tried and trusted. They don't want to splash out on designs that are going to be temporary. People are playing it quite safe. Now is not the time to make a mistake. They want cool, calm and subtle," Duff says.

"Fashion has gone into the 80s, with shoulder pads and colours, and maybe gardens will start to come that way in the end. At Chelsea I was expecting moody blacks and greys but I also expected some big wow-factor fluorescent colours like oranges, which is what is happening in fashion – but not in the garden.

"But we are much more conscious about what materials we are using. Now we will see a bigger sweep of British natives coming in."

"There's a lot of black – black walls, black fencing, black grasses – which is great for our grey skies. And there are some lovely blood reds. Black gives a great deal of depth to a small space. In a small garden it can be really effective."

People are going to be growing more plants from seed because of the ongoing "grow your own" campaign and the economic climate, he predicts.

"Mixing the vegetables in the border is really nice. It can work well. Space is at a premium and this is a good compromise, so you can have something pretty and have vegetables."

The grassy, fluffy foliage of fennel works beautifully in flower borders, adding texture and movement, while the deep foliage of other vegetables can provide a good contrast in the flower border, along with pretty flowering herbs such as chives and thyme.

Ultimately, our gardens will reflect the release from the current stranglehold of the recession.

"Gone are the days of carefully manicured gardens," Duff says. "There's a more rough and ready approach, a return to allowing things to look slightly out of place. Our houses have become very ordered and structured, and the garden will give us a release from that."

BEST OF THE BUNCH: Armeria (Thrift/Sea pink)

This pretty, dainty perennial, often found in seaside gardens, brightens up any border or rockery at this time of year, with pink, red or white flowerheads topping grass-like, densely-packed leaves. Thrift, which grows only to around eight inches (20cm) in height, looks great at the front of dry and sunny borders, is drought tolerant, long-flowering and makes an ideal edging plant.

Our native variety, A maritima, flowers from May to July and you can have different colours if you choose a named variety such as "Alba" (white), "Lauchiana" (rich pink) or "Bloodstone" (dark red).

GOOD ENOUGH TO EAT: Globe artichoke

As trends move towards ornamental edibles, make a space in your garden for globe artichokes, which sit as easily in the flower border as they do in the vegetable patch. The bit you eat is the base of the mature flower bud, which can be braised in stock, although I prefer to boiled them and then eat the fleshy part of the overlapping leaves dipped in vinaigrette before getting to the artichoke heart. They need a sunny, sheltered site with well-drained, moisture-retentive soil to which plenty of organic matter has been added. They can be bought as small, pot-grown plants, seeds or offsets and need to be grown three-foot (90cm) apart, or spaced in a flower border. Take off any flower heads produced in the first year. They crop best in their second and third years, after which they can be discarded. Weed and water plants well, especially during dry spells. If you only want one big flower head, remove side shoots on each stem. When harvesting in May and June, cut the immature flower heads with secateurs just above a leaf junction, before the scales start to open, or they will become tough.

THREE WAYS TO: Prevent tomato problems.

1. To help prevent late blight – the most common problem – grow tomato plants under cover and don't leave unharvested potatoes in the soil as they can infect subsequent crops. You can also use a copper-based fungicide as a preventative spray.

2. Water your tomato plants regularly to prevent blossom-end rot and fruit splitting.

3. Remove sideshoots regularly as the plant grows to ensure it remains healthy and crops well.

SPECIAL READER OFFER Super Fruit Collection

IF YOU'RE passionate about healthy eating and are looking for some tasty new fruits to add to your five a day then why not try these new unusual selections. Goji berries are rich in vitamins and minerals and are a great source of antioxidants with up to 500 times more vitamin C than an orange by their weight.

The tasty Honey berry fruits are just like blueberries and can be enjoyed fresh, or baked in jams, pies and muffins. The fruits ripen in early June, in the first or second year of planting and will continue to do so year after year up to 75 years!

Landlords are advised to get protected

FOLLOWING reports that over a third of UK landlords have tenants in arrears, lettings agents Your Move is advising landlords to take steps in protecting rental payments and minimise the risk of repossession.

They wish to target in particular those with a mortgage on their investment property or who have had to remortgage their own home to fund the investment property.

The research, recently conducted by the National Landlords Association (NLA), the leading representative body for private residential landlords, also revealed that over the last six months 44 per cent of landlords had experienced rental arrears.

Of those who had attempted to recover losses many had had to wait months due to delays in court hearings as well as suffering added court costs.

Darren Baugh, senior manager of Your Move in Haverhill comments: "As unemployment figures continue to rise in the UK it's understandable that a greater number of tenants may be facing financial difficulties and as such may be unable to pay their rent.

"Unfortunately, many landlords do not consider the difficulties they could face should this happen to them – the knock-on effect could be that they are unable to afford their mortgage payments and ultimately they could themselves face repossession of their property.

"There are products on the market that landlords can take advantage of which provide protection against non payment of rents as well as legal cost insurance to help recover possession of the property.

"It means that, despite a tenant's financial difficulties, landlords will still receive the majority of the rental income and could continue to do so for up to six months while a tenant's future payments are guaranteed or a new tenant is found.

"Such policies are generally very inexpensive – for example for approximately £12.50 per month they can protect against the loss of a £500 rental income and also provide much needed peace of mind – particularly in the current climate," adds Darren.

"Landlords can't afford to be without this support insurance."

He continues: "And, although the tenant's circumstances can change over time, landlords should also take steps to ensure that the tenant they choose is as reliable and as financially secure as possible from the outset.

"In this current climate no-one knows what's round the corner and it's therefore vital that landlords get as much protection as they can – and as soon as they can."

If you require any further information about protecting your future rental income, as a landlord, call Your Move on (01440) 707222.

YOUR GUIDE TO MOVING HOME

1 Moving home can be a complicated business and, in the hectic run to the big day, it is all too easy to forget something vital. The Property News offers their readers this handy checklist that should help avoid major pitfalls. We suggest you tick off the items as you deal with them...

WITH FOUR WEEKS TO GO:

- ☐ Get estimates from removal companies, checking that comprehensive insurance cover is available against damage or loss. Is there a packing and unpacking service? Confirm the date of your move with the firm you have chosen.
- ☐ Check on your home contents insurance policies to ensure that you are covered for the move, and covered at your new address.
- ☐ Make arrangements for your gas and electricity meters (plus water meters where relevant) to be read and all your appliances to be disconnected on the day of your move.
- ☐ Arrange to take over gas and electricity at your new address, and make sure that all appliances will be properly fitted, plumbed or connected.
- ☐ Notify British Telecom and ask them to make the necessary arrangements for a final account at your present address, and for taking over or installing telephone facilities at your new home.
- ☐ Arrange for change of address cards to be printed.

WITH TWO WEEKS TO GO:

- ☐ Confirm all arrangements, times etc, for meter readings, disconnections and reconnections, with authorities and with your buyer and seller.
- ☐ Make sure you have a good stock of packing materials, including sturdy boxes and plenty of string and sticky tape.
- ☐ Begin to throw out unwanted items from attics, wardrobes. What you really don't want you may as well dump now, or send to charity. It's a great time for a good sort out!

WITH ONE WEEK TO GO:

- ☐ Send off change of address cards.
- ☐ Arrange and pay for automatic redirection of your mail by the Post Office.
- ☐ Cancel and pay up accounts for routine delivery services such as milk, groceries, fuel and your Cambridge Evening News. Re-organise these deliveries for your new address.
- ☐ Defrost refrigerators in preparation for move and, if you are moving a freezer and its contents, turn it up to maximum for a couple of days before you move.

WITH ONE DAY TO GO:

- ☐ Complete your packing except for those items you are likely to need overnight, and prepare a picnic for moving day.
- ☐ Have a large enough cash 'float' available to deal with unexpected expenses, and make sure you have collected documents and valuables together in a safe place.
- ☐ Cover carpets which are being left behind, so as to minimise damage during furniture removal.
- ☐ Check through previous lists to make sure nothing has been overlooked, then enjoy a worry-free early night!

2 ON MOVING DAY:

- ☐ Strip beds and pack bedding and nightclothes.
- ☐ Pack items for washing/toiletries.
- ☐ Take down curtains.
- ☐ Take up rugs, carpets, floor coverings, as required.
- ☐ Dismantle any light fittings etc., not included in the sale.
- ☐ Turn off electric appliances.
- ☐ Disconnect cooker.
- ☐ Turn off boiler/central heating.
- ☐ Turn off water.
- ☐ Read gas meter.
- ☐ Read electricity meter.
- ☐ Secure all windows.
- ☐ Lock all doors.
- ☐ Leave key as arranged with new owners.
- ☐ On arrival at your new home, unpack slowly and methodically so that you can check for loss or damage.

3 EXTRA HINTS FOR A SMOOTH MOVE...

WHO TO NOTIFY:

- ☐ Banks.
- ☐ Building Societies.
- ☐ Credit companies.
- ☐ Insurance companies.
- ☐ Gas, Electricity and Water Boards.
- ☐ Telephone company.
- ☐ Local Authority (Rating Department).
- ☐ Driving Licence authorities.
- ☐ Inland Revenue.
- ☐ Store cards and accounts.
- ☐ Other lease, hire or rental companies.
- ☐ Employer.
- ☐ Doctor.
- ☐ Dentist.
- ☐ Schools.
- ☐ Professional Bodies/Trade Unions.
- ☐ Motoring organisations.
- ☐ Newsagent.
- ☐ Friends and relatives.

sales lettings mortgages

Why sell the traditional way?

Get Estate Agents to value it and put it on the market.

Show people around the property (mostly "nosy parkers" & sightseers).

If no offers received after 2 or 3 months, reduce price.

Show more people around.

Eventually accept an offer at between 5 & 10% off the advertised price.

Hope the sale doesn't fall through (over 30% of sales don't reach completion).

Once price agreed, wait a further 3 months for sale to complete.

Work out how many £000s it has cost you in reducing the price, making mortgage payments, paying Estate Agents fees and legal fees since you started the process (on average, 7 months ago...)

Sell your property the CXG way...

The simple alternative

- Pay no Estate Agent's fees
- Pay no Legal fees
- No further mortgage payments
- Have cash within days (Instead of months)

New Zed has the X factor

NISSAN'S 350Z sports car had a dream start in life, writes Iain Dooley: critically acclaimed and embraced by the buying public, the compact coupe possessed all the right attributes.

The same appears to be happening again with the, wait for it, 370Z. However, despite the risks involved, Nissan has taken a brave pill: this second album equivalent is not simply more of the same but an altogether more upbeat compilation.

Dodgy music references aside, the 370Z has been designed to deliver all that was great about the 350Z but in a slightly smaller, more concentrated package. If the older car was viewed as something for everyone, this new model has been devised to appeal to the more discerning enthusiast.

Don't confuse this approach with being elitist, though. The 370Z hasn't been designed to exclude sections of the buying public, only leave the surplus weight and fat behind plus add a little dash of clever technology for good measure.

Progress in the intervening years has led to a demand for more power. So, the 370Z comes with a 3.7-litre V6 – up from the 350Z's 3.5-litre lump. The result is 331bhp, 5.4 seconds from rest to 62mph and a 155mph top speed.

Then there's the car's size, which is instantly noticeable as being smaller than the 350Z. It's 100mm shorter in the wheelbase in a bid to increase agility and driver enjoyment. This wide, squat stance is perfectly in tune with the car's more aggressive nose and stubby rear end.

Along with less in the length department, the engineers have managed to keep the car's weight down – always the scourge of performance motoring – despite the increase in safety kit and creature comforts.

For many the default choice will be the six-speed manual gearbox. The unit's hefty gearshift action is full of feel yet short of throw, allowing positive, confidence-inspiring gear shifts at a pace you can dictate. There's also the car's Syncro Rev Control (available on GT Pack and GT Ultimate grades) which mimics the classic heel-and-toe action by matching the engine revs when you change down. It's a great addition – even for experienced drivers – and certainly smoothes out the process. And, of course, you can turn it off.

For the first time for UK buyers you also get the choice of a seven-speed auto gearbox, complete with paddle shifters. This, too, includes a throttle blip for the downchange, and gearchanges are always predictable and smooth.

Electronic trickery aside, the 370Z's main focus is on entertaining and flattering you. And it's a job it does extremely well. That 3.7-litre V6 is a willing and tuneful performer, yet never short of puff. The inclusion of a limited slip differential for this rear-wheel drive car allows you to corner with confidence and have a little fun at the same time – if you know what you're doing.

Make no mistake, this is a rapid and responsive machine. Any flab or excess you thought the 350Z had has now gone, replaced by sharper reflexes and an altogether more urgent approach to motoring.

And the driving environment? Oh yes, it's got a nice cabin and comfortable, supportive seats. The fascia is better built and of higher quality materials, but you'll be more interested no doubt in driving the socks off the 370Z than admiring the buttons for the stereo.

It does have a nice stereo, though. And the option of a pretty good satnav unit, too. In fact, the car is very well equipped for the various asking prices – certainly more so than any close rival in terms of performance or price.

And that's one thing Nissan has refused to change about the Zed, as it remains excellent value for money.

Basically

However it managed it, the firm has done it again with the 370Z. In music terms the car has broken the second album jinx and is heading for the top of the charts.

Flattering and entertaining: Smaller than 350Z.

Children are put at risk as car seats get ever harder to install

SOME child car seats are so difficult to fit that they pose a safety risk, Which? magazine has said.

Which? advised parents against buying one particular seat as it was so complicated to install that there was a high risk of fitting it incorrectly.

This was the Renolux Next Comfort while the Renolux 360 also performed poorly in tests, with the magazine saying it offered "woeful protection" in front crash tests.

The top-rated child car seats, which not only offered good protection but also clear instructions for easy installation, were:

- Britax Baby-Safe Sleeper
- Maxi Cosi Cabriofix with Easyfix base
- Mamas & Papas Primo Viaggio Isofix
- KiddyInfinity Pro

■ Britax KidFix (Isofix)

Which? Car editor Richard Headland said: "You can buy the safest seat on the market but it must be fitted correctly to protect a child.

"We've found some seats difficult to install and others offered poor crash protection, which simply isn't acceptable. Until the legal standard improves, children will be at risk."

Child car seats: Complex fitting is counter-productive.

Finance available and part exchange welcome - Been refused finance? No problems, try us!

IT'S been a hectic week for car dealers in Cambridgeshire since the Government introduced its scrappage scheme to encourage motorists to ditch their old bangers for shiny new, environmentally-friendly cars.

Showrooms have been even busier than normal and Murketts of Cambridge is reporting a massive 75 per cent increase in sales inquiries.

Sales manager Stewart Lebentz said: "People are flocking in looking for cheap new cars, typically the lower-end Vauxhall models like Corsas, Astras and the sporting Tigra.

"There has been particular interest from customers who have 10-year-old cars to trade in, as they are wanting to take advantage of the Government's £2,000 scrappage bonus, to which Murketts is adding further offers on selected new Vauxhall models.

"I can foresee this boom period lasting for another three months or so, at which point the £300 million that the Government has put forward for this scheme will come to an end. It is important that people realise that there is limited funding for this scheme and buyers must act fast or risk losing out."

Marshall Nissan in Cambridge is supporting the scrappage scheme and offering customers £2,000 off the purchase of a new Nissan car, when they replace their old model.

The Newmarket Road dealership is also extending the £2,000 minimum trade-in offer to include vehicles 8-10 years old, for any customer choosing one of Nissan's British built-models - which includes any new Micra, Note, Qashqai or Qashqai+2.

This means drivers of vehicles aged eight years old or more can now take home the Popular choice: The Vauxhall Corsa.

British-built Micra from £5,995.

The £2,000 discount incentive at Marshall Nissan also comes with the "Just In Case" package on selected Nissan finance offers. This helps to protect customers if they lose their main source of income through accident, sickness or unemployment.

David Arrowsmith, dealer

principal at Marshall Nissan, said: "The scrappage scheme is a great incentive for both motorists and the British manufacturing industry as a whole."

Breaking up ain't hard to do

Responsible drivers scrap their vehicles at an Authorised Treatment Facility (ATF)

Because only an ATF can legally scrap a vehicle. That means any pollutants will be made safe before it's recycled in an environmentally friendly way.

What's more, for certain types of vehicle you'll get a DVLA approved Certificate of Destruction (CoD). A CoD proves that the ATF has told DVLA your vehicle has been scrapped and so is no longer your responsibility.

www.direct.gov.uk/motoring

End of the road? Get over it and move on with your local ATF.

Project Business Analyst

Starting salary in range £21,373 - £22,982 per annum (pay award pending)

The Babraham Institute is a charity which is world renowned for its research in life sciences that lead to new medicines and treatments for human diseases.

We are looking for a Business Analyst to undertake a wide range of activities within our Business Systems group. The primary objective of this role is preparation for the Babraham Institute move to a shared services centre (SSC) in 2010. The successful applicant will contribute to the smooth transition into the SSC and to this end will liaise with and assist the departments concerned to ensure specific requirements are met. They will also be required to document new business processes and produce standard operating procedures. The position is available for one year.

Applicants must have a formal computing qualification, or equivalent experience, and be able to demonstrate technical ability. Emphasis of systems analysis and design is extremely important in this role. Experience of relational database (T-SQL/SQL, stored procedures, etc.) will help you succeed in this. Exposure to the following would be an advantage: Microsoft development technologies and environments (such as VB.NET, ASP.NET, XML, XSL, and Visual Studio).

Further information about the Institute can be found on our website. Application forms and further details are available electronically from our website (www.babraham.ac.uk), or by contacting our 24-hour Recruitment Line on 01223 496365, or e-mail: babraham.personnel@bbsrc.ac.uk. On applying please quote reference PBA/ST. Closing date for completed applications is 17 June 2009. NO AGENCIES PLEASE

CRICKET ROUND-UP

Curtis is Colville's star turn

A HALF-CENTURY from Adam Curtis helped Weston Colville to a four-wicket home win over Bluntisham in Division Two of the Tucker Gardner Cambs & Hunts Premier League on Saturday.

Arvid Gunderson also hit an unbeaten 47 as Colville's batting line-up rose to the challenge set by their opponents.

Joe Robins (32), Harry Randall (31) and skipper Ade Westley (30) all chipped in with solid contributions as Colville reached a winning score of 229 for 6.

Howard Mathson was the pick of the Bluntisham bowlers, taking 3 for 78.

Earlier, Bluntisham had set Colville a challenging 225 for 7. Vikrant Sharma and Jon Collen top-scored for the visitors with Paul Briggs scoring 34.

Jake Smith was the best Colville bowler with 3 for 70.

■ Horseheath took advantage of some wayward Wilbrahams' bowling as they recorded a convincing 101-run success in Division One of the CCA Senior League on Saturday.

Wilbrahams conceded more than 60 extras and David Brown (32), Rob Ketteridge (31) and Steve Lanceman (30 not out) added to their misery as Horseheath made 244 all out.

Ollie Blake did have some success, finishing as Wilbrahams' best bowler with 5 for 54.

Wilbrahams did not come close to reaching their target, with Horseheath seamer Wes Walker claiming 4 for 30 and Steve Fox collecting 3 for 37.

Liam Elmer mustered Wilbrahams' top score with 27.

■ With their first team without a match, Haverhill II took centre stage with a convincing 140-run victory over Witham III in Division Seven of the Marshall Hatchick Two Counties Championship on Saturday.

Batting first, Haverhill amassed a formidable target of 242 for 8.

In reply, Witham were hustled out for 102 as Haverhill helped themselves to a haul of 20 points.

Right Royal cup victory for Exchange

HAVERHILL Royal Exchange are celebrating after lifting the Treadfirst Sudbury & District Sunday League Cup. They took the trophy with a 2-1 success over Acton in the final.

Exchange, who started as firm underdogs, were soon under pressure, but some solid defending saw them keep Acton at bay.

Downes and Gladden were outstanding at the back for Exchange, but, on 15 minutes, Acton's strikers linked up well, giving the centre-backs the slip before coolly slotting the ball past keeper Palazon. Players from both sides were struggling with the heat on a bumpy and dusty pitch.

Exchange began to look more confident with Burgess and Smith winning 50-50 tackles in midfield. The wing play of Anderson and the efforts of Palmer provided plenty for the willing Craig and Baker to chase.

Midway through the first half, a high ball was only partially cleared by the Acton defence and Baker caught their keeper off his line with a shot from 35 yards.

Exchange were now well on top and, after 40 minutes, Smith won a tackle and slipped past two Acton defenders before crossing for Anderson to overhead kick the ball into the roof of the net from 18 yards.

The second half was dominated by Exchange, but they failed to take several chances that came their way, always leaving the door open for an Acton equaliser.

However, the final whistle brought joyful scenes among the Exchange players and supporters.
